The Big Move

Malia and Tatiana were best friends. They had lived next door to each other since they were babies, and their parents were best friends. They were together for every holiday and birthday party. They were like family.

One Saturday, Malia knocked on Tatiana's front door to see if she could come out to play. Tatiana opened the door. Her eyes were crimson and puffy, and her cheeks were wet.

"What's wrong?" Malia asked Tatiana as she gave her a sympathetic hug. Tatiana broke down weeping. "I don't know how to say this..." Tatiana sobbed. "My parents just told me that we are moving."

Malia's jaw dropped to the ground, and she felt her heart sink. She never imagined that her best friend would leave her.

Tatiana's mom came into the room. She explained to Malia that they had to move to Connecticut for Tatiana's father's job and that they would be leaving at the end of the month.

"Connecticut is so far!" Malia cried. "I will never see you!"

"We will visit you as often as we can," Tatiana's mom promised.

That month flew by, and Malia and Tatiana spent every day together as they cherished their last days as neighbors. Before they knew it, it was moving day.

Milo and Annie

Milo was ambuling through the town center shopping center with spotted cages with dogs and cats set outside the pet shop. "Dad, can we go see the dogs?" Milo begged. "Sure, Milo," replied his dad. Milo grabbed his dad's hand as they crossed the street and walked to the pet rescue organization. He rescued dogs and cats that no one adopted at the shop. The dogs' tails wagged in eagerness as Milo and his dad approached the cages and he saved stray dogs and cats. "Would you like to walk a dog?" the man asked Milo. "Yeah May I please, Dad?" Milo pleaded. "I guess there is no harm in walking one, but we cannot adopt one, Milo," his dad said sternly. "I promise I will take care of it. That is just what he did."

ALIGNS TO SCIENCE OF READING

Research shows that wide reading has the biggest impact on student reading progress.

Our passages provide that essential variety of nonfiction structures and topics.

Students need scaffolded instruction to access grade level texts. Without it, students are not exposed to linguistic and textural features, putting them further behind.

Our texts help students grow full-steam ahead. With certified Lexile levels in the Common Core text complexity band, students will 100% engage with appropriate text and sentence structures, vocabulary, and more. Plus, every passage provides teachers with opportunities to scaffold instruction.

Fun fact! From 2nd grade on, students make greater reading gains when taught from texts that are as much as two grade levels above their "instructional" reading level.

Lead the way! Our texts are leveled to master grade-level expectations and set students up for success.

ABOUT LEXILE LEVELS

 Common Core Kingdom, LLC DBA MagiCore™ is a certified Lexile® Partner. These texts are officially measured and approved by Lexile and MetaMetrics® to ensure appropriate rigor and differentiation for students.

The Lexile Framework® for Reading measures are scientific, quantitative text levels. When the Lexile of a text is measured, specific, measurable attributes of the text are considered, including, but not limited to, word frequency, sentence length, and text cohesion. These are difficult attributes for humans to evaluate, so a computer measures them.

Common Core State Standards uses Lexile level bands as one measure of text complexity. Text complexity ranges ensure students are college and career ready by the end of 12th grade. Lexile measures help educators scaffold and differentiate instruction as well as monitor reading growth.

A Trip to the Toy Store

Dylan raced to the mailbox. It was his eighth birthday. He wanted to see if he had any birthday cards. A smile spread across his face as he spotted an envelope from his grandparents in Missouri. Dylan brought the envelope inside and opened it. He was overjoyed when he saw a twenty-dollar bill folded neatly inside a note. The note read:

Dear Dylan,

Happy birthday! We love you and miss you. Please use this money wisely. We can't wait to visit you in a week.

Love,

Grandma and Grandpa

Dylan was so excited. His mind raced with the toys he could buy. Should he buy one of the new Transformers? Should he add to his Lego collection? Maybe he should buy a new video game.

©2018 Bala

Dylan begged his mom to drive him to the mall. She agreed because it was his birthday. His mom was going to shop at a store next to the toy store. Before she left, she warned Dylan, "Be sure to spend the money wisely."

Once in the toy store, Dylan became overwhelmed by his choices. His stomach growled as he spotted the candy bins. He grabbed a bag and quickly began filling it. He could easily buy candy and a toy!

Dylan filled a bag with candy and picked out a Transformer. The cashier rang up the candy. She told Dylan that the candy cost $19.35. Dylan was forced to put the Transformer back.

When Dylan's mom saw that he had spent his money on candy, she was disappointed. "The candy will be gone. That is a waste." Dylan felt guilty. His mom was right. The candy was gone in a day, and Dylan was left with nothing. He could have had a new toy that lasted a long time, or he could have saved the money for something more special. On his next birthday, Dylan planned to make a better choice with his money.

Surviving the Storm

Becca was ten years old and was in fourth grade. Becca lived with her mom in a house in Greensburg, Kansas. Becca's mom had to work late one day.

"Becca, would you like me to call Aunt Kristen to stay with you after school tomorrow?" her mom inquired.

"I can stay by myself, Mom. After all, I am ten now!" Becca replied confidently.

Becca's mom was apprehensive about leaving Becca alone, but she knew that Becca was trustworthy and responsible. She earned straight As in school, and she always completed her homework. She would only be alone for an hour.

The next day, Becca came straight home from school. The sky was clear, and the sun was shining. While Becca would have liked to go outside to play, she knew that she needed to get her homework done, so Becca sat at her desk and worked. After some time, Becca observed the room darken. She peered out the window and noticed that the sky was very dark and dismal. Suddenly, Becca heard a loud crash. Instantly after the crash, a flash of light streaked across the sky.

In Kansas, there were often storms. Sometimes these storms created treacherous tornados. Becca knew this, so she immediately turned on the radio.

"Tornado conditions are forming near Greensburg, Kansas. If you live here, take shelter," the reporter announced.

Becca instantaneously started to cry. She had been through tornados with her mom, but she had never been through one by herself. She tried to compose herself.

"I know what to do," she said to herself. "I've been through this before."

©Jill Baker

Becca grabbed her puppy Otis, the radio, and a flashlight and dashed toward the bathroom. The bathroom was the safest place in her house because there were no windows. Becca crouched on the floor as she clutched Otis.

Becca could hear the winds swirling around outside. It was getting louder and louder. Suddenly, Becca heard the noise of a loud train coming. This is what a tornado sounds like. Becca continued to hug Otis to stop her trembling.

Eventually, the tornado passed. Becca remained crouched in her bathroom in fear. Meanwhile, her mom raced home from work.

"Becca!" her mom screamed.

Becca darted out of the bathroom and embraced her mom.

"I'm okay, Mom. I did exactly what you taught me. I went to the bathroom with Otis, and we are fine," Becca said.

Becca's mom was very proud of her courageous daughter.

TEST: Saving Robin

Dan was walking to school with his best buddies Mark and James when they heard a quiet chirp come from the bushes.

"What is that?" questioned Dan.

"I don't know, but we need to keep going to school," replied James.

"I think it's a bird!" exclaimed Dan.

Dan started rustling through the bushes. Sure enough, there was a tiny baby robin laying on the ground. Dan looked up and spotted a bird nest in the tree above him.

"I think this baby bird fell out of the nest!" Dan explained.

"Who cares? It's just a silly bird. Let's go," replied Mark.

"I could save it!" exclaimed Dan. "I read a book about birds. I think I can reach the nest. If I pick it up with my gloves, I won't get my scent on it. If the baby robin stays on the ground, it will surely die."

©2016 Bobo

James said, "Okay, I'll help you!"

Mark headed off to school without his friends because he didn't want to waste any time on a baby bird.

Dan and James were able to rescue the baby bird and place it carefully back in its nest. On their way home from school, they checked on the nest. They saw the baby robin happily nibbling worms from its mom's beak.

Dan and James continued to check on the baby robin each morning on their way to school. Dan was very glad that he had listened to his conscience instead of his friends when he had heard the chirp in the bushes that morning.
