TWO PARTY SYSTEM

A political party is a group of people that have similar political beliefs and goals. In the United States, there are two main political parties: Democrats and Republicans. Republicans and Democrats run the government. Before a presidential election, each political party holds a primary election to pick a candidate to represent their party. In the general election, the entire country votes on one of the candidates to be president.

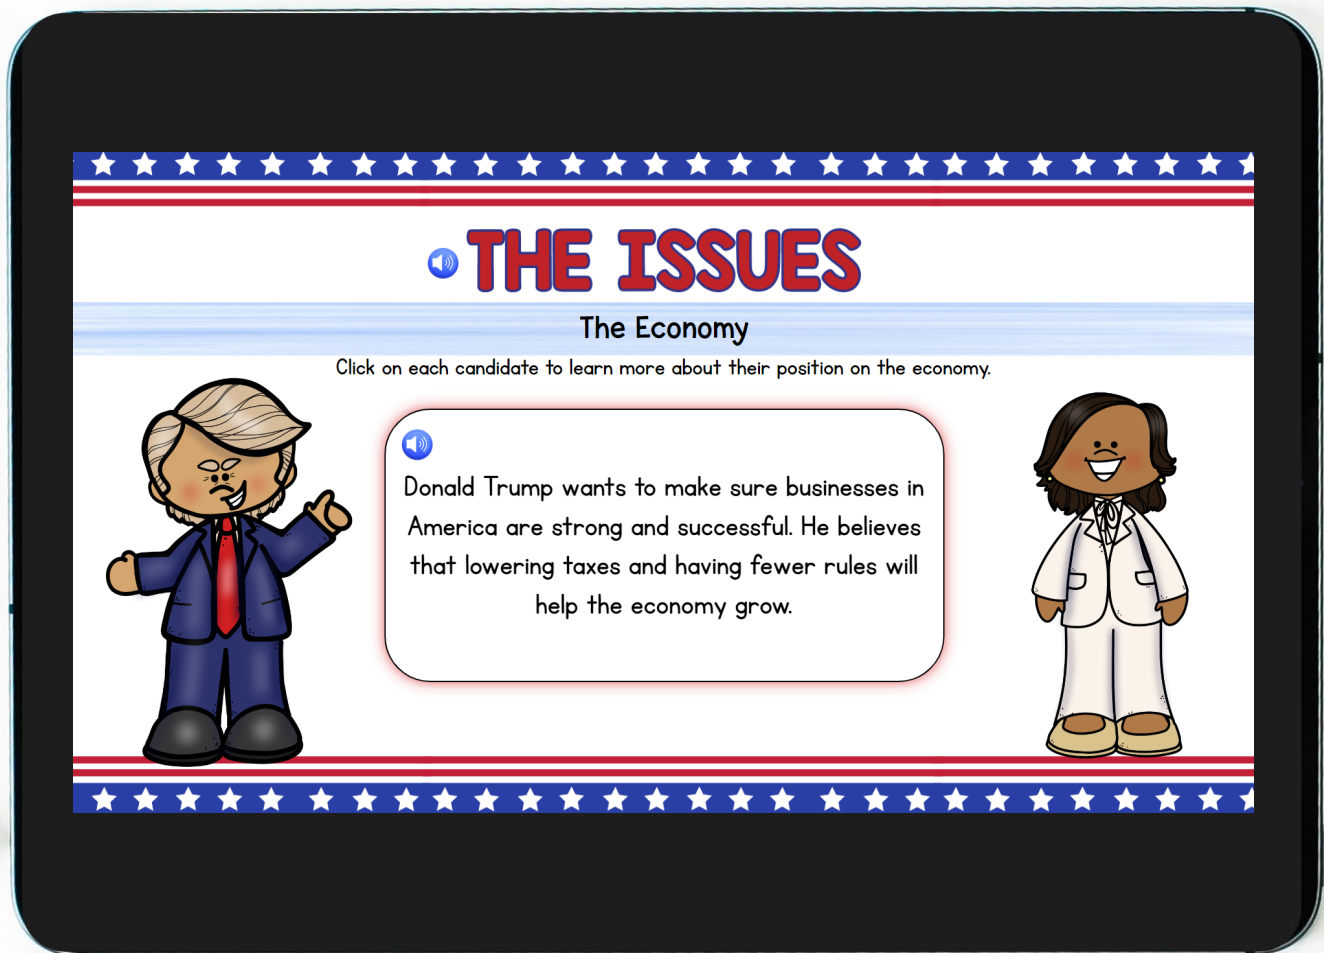

While Republicans and Democrats hold most elected offices, there are other political parties in the United States.
