

VISUAL TEXT FEATURES

Lesson

Let's Practice!

1. What are the visual text features below?

2. How do the text features relate to the story?

This marble statue of Joan Proctor is displayed at the Reptile House in the London Zoo.

3. What did you learn from the text features that was not in the story?

4. What information from the story could be used to include a map?

Create a Title for This Visual Text Feature:

Their tail is usually longer than their body.

Adult moles can grow up to 10 feet long and can weigh as much as 200 pounds!

Excellent sense of smell

Their sharp teeth are made for eating flesh.

They have sharp claws perfect for climbing trees.

4th
Grade

Visual Text Features in Nonfiction

DIGITAL Mini lessons

Let's Sort!

Match each text feature with an example and purpose.

GRAPH

MAP

TIMELINE

CHARTS

DIAGRAM

Let's Practice!

1. What are the visual text features below?

2. How do the text features relate to the story?

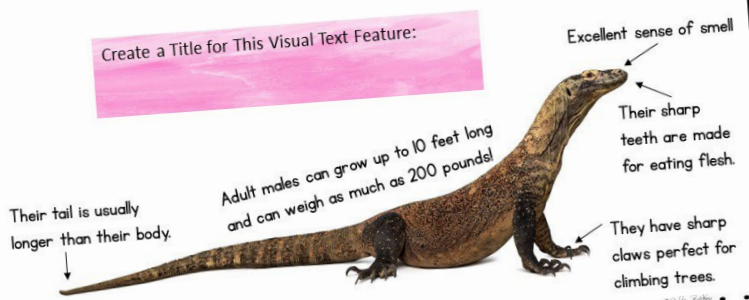

3. What did you learn from the text features that was not in the story?

4. What information from the story could be used to include a map?

This marble statue of Joan Procter is displayed at the Reptile House in the London Zoo.

Create a Title for This Visual Text Feature:

VISUAL TEXT FEATURES

Visual text features help readers understand a text in a way that the alone cannot. Good readers _____ the text; look at the visual text features, and put the information _____.

Label each text feature example shown.

How long does it take a broken bone to heal?

